

Peace Dragon Tales

A Peace Dragon Tale is designed to develop social awareness in young learners. The first two installments in the series, Words and Not Opposites, focus on inspiring children to speak kindly to one another and to honor each other's differences.

The newest additions to the series, Alphabetter and How I Did It, bring new life to Linda's inspiring message by prompting children's creativity and encouraging them to embrace their individuality and uniqueness.

This inspiring series is the creation of Linda Garrison Ragsdale. In 2008, Linda's travels brought her to Mumbai, where she met a young girl named Naomi Scherr and her father, Alan. Naomi asked Linda to teach her how to draw a dragon. Tragically, Linda and her travel companions were caught in the Mumbai

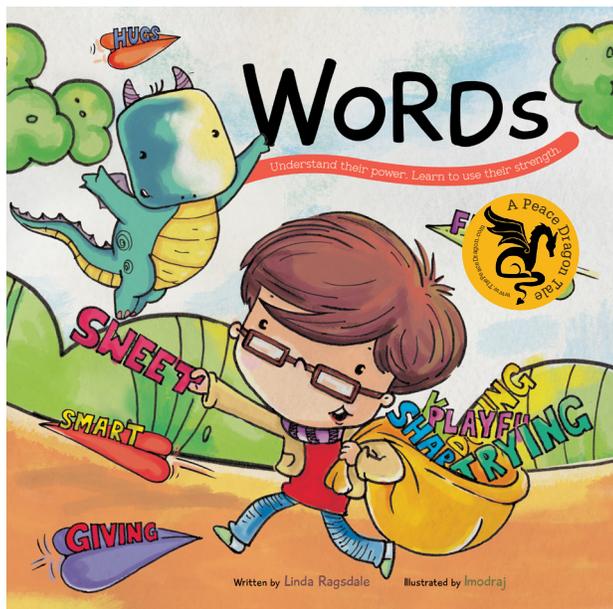

Terrorist Attacks and neither Naomi nor her father survived. Out of her last request, the Peace Dragon was born—a creature whose spikes are made of inverted hearts and who has fire, but doesn't have to use it.

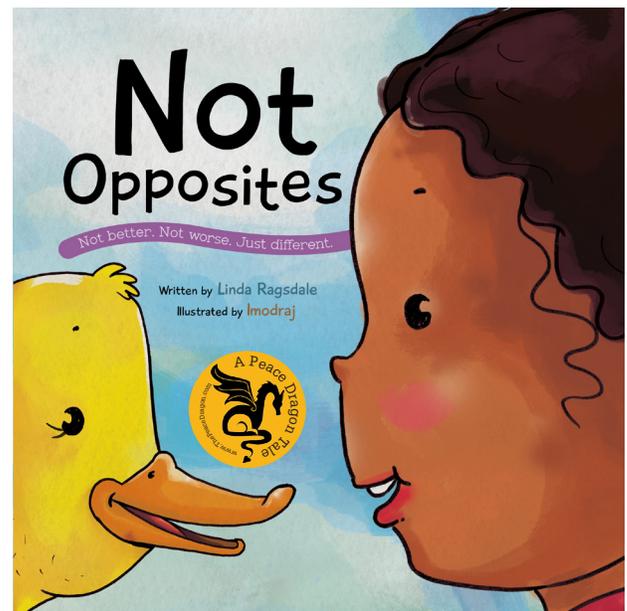

Linda has made it the goal of her incredible series to encourage peace, beginning with teaching children to choose kindness and peace in their own lives. Devoting her time to spreading the message, Linda has shared her stories with over 30,000 students in schools, libraries, and workshops around the world. She has been featured in a TEDx talk and nominated for the 2017 El-Hibri Peace Education Prize.
