Integrated Services and Supports within context of person, family and community

Type of Change that is Needed

Transitional Change

- ⊙ “Retooling” the system and its practices to fit the new model
- ⊙ Mergers, consolidations, reorganizations, revising systematic payment structures,
- ⊙ Creating new services, processes, systems and products to replace the traditional one

Transformational Change

- ⊙ Fundamental reordering of thinking, beliefs, culture, relationships, and behavior
- ⊙ Turns assumptions inside out and disrupts familiar rituals and structures
- ⊙ Rejects command and control relationships in favor of co-creative partnerships

PERSON CENTERED PRACTICES and the DDA ASSESSMENT-CHANGING PRACTICE

DDA considered the release of the 2014 Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) standards for person centered practices a natural extension of long held values that have guided how we approach supporting individuals with disabilities and an opportunity to better align our assessment and planning processes with the LifeCourse principles.

LEGISLATIVE ACTION: HB 2746

- Directed the refinancing of Medicaid Personal Care using the 1915k Community First Choice Option.
- Enhanced 6% federal match created savings for service system reinvestment.

Washington State-Community First Choice

- A new Medicaid state plan option assists individuals to access:
 - Personal Care;
 - Skills Acquisition Training;
 - Back-up Systems;
 - Training on caregiver management; and
 - Assistive Technology.

LEGISLATIVE ACTION: SB 6387

Investment in Developmental Disabilities Services

- 4,000 more served by new Individual and Family Support waiver; and
- 1,000 more served by Basic Plus waiver by June 2017.

IFS Waiver

- The objective of the IFS Waiver is to supplement natural support systems and develop and implement supports and services to successfully maintain individuals in their family homes and communities.

Basic Plus Waiver

- The Basic Plus Waiver provides increased supports for individuals living in their family or own home and includes employment service.

The screenshot shows the homepage of the Informing Families website. At the top left is a dark blue navigation bar with a white hamburger menu icon and the word "MENU". To the right of the menu is the Informing Families logo, which consists of a stylized white figure holding a globe, followed by the text "Informing Families" and the tagline "Today and Tomorrow" in a smaller font. Below the navigation bar is a light purple banner with the text "SUPPORTING REAL LIVES ACROSS THE LIFE COURSE" in a white, serif font. The main content area is white and features a large circular image of a baby's face on the left. Overlaid on the baby's face is the text "AGES 0-3" in a bold, red, sans-serif font. To the right of the baby image is a text block that reads: "Find opportunities for your child to grow and develop. Learn about early intervention services and connect with other families." Below this text is a collage of four small images: a baby playing with blocks, a baby sitting on a yellow toy, a baby playing with a blue toy, and a baby playing with a red toy. At the bottom of the page are four circular icons: a lightbulb, a bar chart, a document with a checkmark, and a group of people.

FRAMEWORK APPLICATION: INTEGRATED SUPPORT & SERVICES

Integrated Support and Services

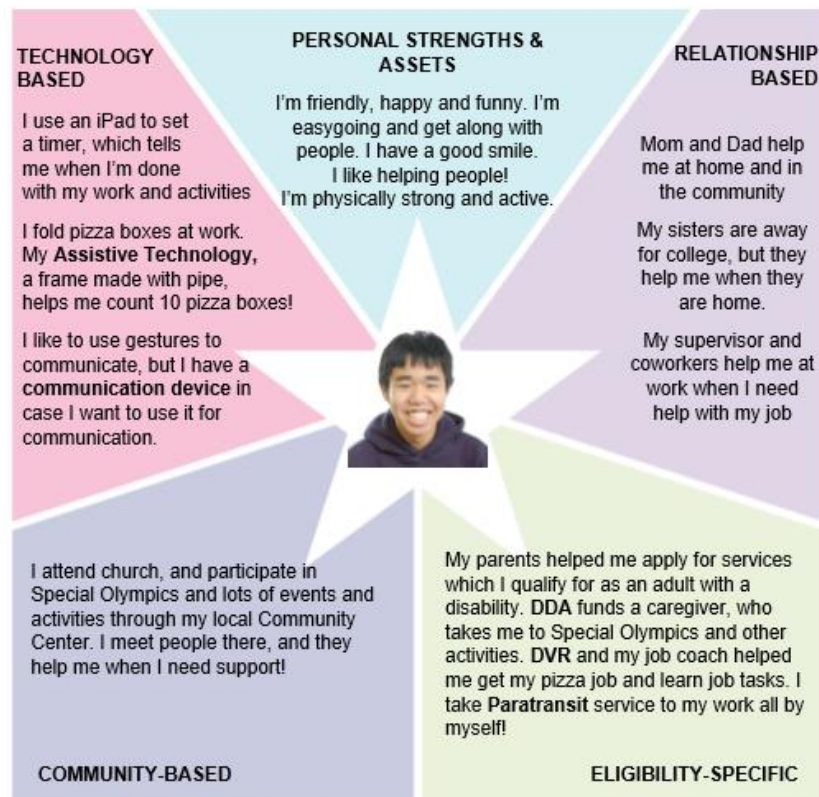

Throughout this manual, we will use the model below to help youth and families explore and organize different types of support. Everyone needs support in life, and using different types of supports and services helps us move toward the life we want. The tool below can help you and your family think about how to find and coordinate the right supports for your future.

Types of support may include:

FRAMEWORK APPLICATION: YOUTH VS. FAMILY ORIENTED?

Section 1: Self-Discovery & Self-Determination

What kind of support do we need in life? In this section, we ask important questions about what you want for your life and how to plan for your future.

This section will cover:

1. Discovery: Who Am I? - Person Centered Transition Planning
2. Discovery: What Do I Want for the Future?
3. Discovery: How Can I Get the Support I Want for the Future?
4. Advice: Family and Friends Share Their Experiences
5. Advice: Professional Opinion
6. Resources

For Youth:

- Explore your interests, preference, strengths and support needs
- Practice making decisions and accept responsibility for your own decisions
- Communicate what you want and need to the people who support you
- Practice disability disclosure—when, what, and with whom to share information about your disability
- Practice requesting accommodation

For Family & Caregivers:

- Support youth in discovering their interests, strengths, and vision for future
- Believe in youth's capacity to make their own decisions and support their decisions
- Know youth's support needs and help them practice disability disclosure and requesting accommodation
- Encourage youth to have new experiences that help lead them toward their future life goals

- Youth vs. Parents/Guardians, who should be the center of focus?
 - Parents/Guardians continue to play active role in young adult's life in collectivistic culture
 - Found the middle ground by starting each section addressing both youth & their families

CULTURALLY RESPONSIVE CONTENT

Discovery: Who Am I?

What is Person-Centered Planning?

Person-Centered Planning (PCP) is a planning process driven by a focus on the whole person (youth) with support from people who know him/her well. PCP offers a way to discover who the person is, what they want in life, and how to support the person.

Why is PCP important?

Family, friends, and teachers have offered support for youth at home, school, or in the community. However, when a young person becomes an adult, support from school and teachers will end. Young people will need to understand themselves and express their needs, with or without family's support. To learn more about PCP and how to get support with the planning process, check the resources page.

Meet Mickle and His Family

Mickle is 21 and graduating this year from his transition program with a job. He is a happy young adult and loves to observe people. Because of his autism, he has many support needs, particularly with communication. He communicates mostly through body language because he does not like assistive technologies.

When he was transitioning from elementary to middle school, he and his family started to do PCP. It helped them learn more about who Mickle is, what his strengths are, and what he loves to do. They identified the supports he needs and the family's goals and dreams for Mickle. Because they started PCP early, Mickle and his family were prepared for changes that come with transition. More information about resources for PCP is available in the resources page (p.16)

LESSONS LEARNED

What is Disability Disclosure?

When individuals with a disability become adults, there will be situations where they need to explain the disability. Disability Disclosure means that a person shares information about the disability to achieve a specific purpose. However, Disability Disclosure is a choice. An individual with a disability does not have to share personal information unless the disclosure is necessary.

Sometimes you need to talk about your disability to ask for support you need. Disability is not something bad or shameful. It's part of who I am. I have a choice about when and who to talk to about my disability—like at college or work. I recommend that people know how to disclose their disability because they might need an accommodation. Without that support, it might be hard to be successful with your job or education.

Accommodation is any arrangement an individual with a disability requires to achieve equal opportunity at school, work or in the community.

To learn more about Disability Disclosure and accommodation, please see the resources page (p.16).

Why is Disability Disclosure Important?

While youth with disabilities attend school, their families, teachers, and professionals understand their needs and arrange accommodations. However, when a youth leaves school and becomes an adult, accommodations are not automatic. Support will not be provided until he or she requests accommodation. It is very important to understand how to ask for accommodations.

Special Education teachers and Independent Living Centers can help youth and families understand Disability Disclosure. They can also help youth and families practice sharing personal information about a disability and requesting accommodations. More information about Independent Living Centers is available online and in the resources page (p.16).

Welcome!

The Community of Practice for Supporting Families of Individuals with Intellectual & Developmental Disabilities involves working with six states to develop systems of support for families throughout the lifespan of their family member with intellectual and developmental disabilities (I/DD).

The Supporting Families project is operated under a five year grant awarded to NASDDDS by the Administration on Intellectual and Developmental Disabilities (AIDD) beginning October 2012. Grant partners include University of Missouri-Kansas City-Institute on Human Development (UMKC-IHD), Human Services Research Institute (HSRI) and the National Association of State Directors of Developmental Disabilities Services (NASDDDS).
